[REDACTED]

Many thanks for your reply.

I can inform you that I will be sending you the current version of the (draft) Framework of Assurance document to-morrow afternoon. My colleague [REDACTED] will be sending you a final version of the SCJS chapter, which is to be included in the statistical bulletin, later to-day.

Kind regards,

[REDACTED],

I've picked up the emails you sent last night, I'm travelling with work and so cannot open attachments on my blackberry. I didn't receive an updated timetable for the submission of evidence from you, and so therefore was not made aware that your late delivery would lead to you requesting such very tight timelines for our review and response.

I will contact the rest of the team in the margins of meetings today, however I am aware that they too have some travel booked in for this week which will limit access to your documents, especially as a secure environment would be appropriate given the sensitive status of your most recent attachment.

We always endeavour to accommodate producers where they have tight deadlines for publication, but we also need to ensure that evidence has been fully reviewed. When I've spoken with the team we will advise you of when we can respond.

In the meantime can you please send through a timetable for your planned submission of further documents and whether they are draft or final evidence, for example it is not clear if you expect to submit further iterations of the draft text in the statistical bulletin. It is also unclear when you plan to publish these documents and therefore what scope we have to work together to ensure that they are as complete as possible by that time.

Best wishes,

[REDACTED].

Subject: OFFICIAL SENSITIVE - DO NOT FORWARD - STATISTICAL BULLETIN - RECORDED CRIME IN SCOTLAND 2013-14 - extract from bulletin

[REDACTED]

STATISTICAL BULLETIN: Recorded Crime in Scotland 2013-14.

OFFICIAL SENSITIVE PRE-RELEASE QUALITY ASSURANCE CIRCULATION

1. Further to my earlier email, please find attached an extract from the statistical bulletin on the above topic. We are circulating this extract to you specifically for the purposes of quality assurance. The circulation of Official Statistics in advance of publication is now governed by secondary legislation, which states that everyone in receipt of pre-release statistics now has a statutory duty to prevent their release. This means that recipients of this email must not pass the information on to anyone else without first consulting with and getting agreement from the responsible statistician. More information on this legislation is available here:

<http://intranet/InExec/AboutUs/Professional-Groups/StatisticianGroup/StandGuidProced/StandardsProcedures/Overview>. [REDACTED] – This is an SG document which is available on request).

2. This extract relates to the overarching section of the bulletin on Recorded crimes and offences in Scotland and within that, to the section on Total recorded crime and to a further section for one of the crime groups, namely Group 1 - Non sexual crimes of violence. The purpose of circulating these sections to you is for you to consider the type of commentary and graphs/charts which we have been developing and to provide any comments on the format and content of this material. I would be grateful for any comments that you may have, by 2 pm on Wednesday 12 November.

3. Upon publication of the HMICS Crime Audit report, an assessment will be made on the time needed to incorporate these findings into the "Recorded Crime in Scotland" bulletin. An exact publication date for "Recorded Crime in Scotland, 2013-14" will be announced following this exercise. I must emphasise that this document is being circulated for quality assurance purposes only and under no circumstances should the figures be released before this statistical bulletin is published, or passed onto anyone else without agreement.

4. Please note that we are still carrying out final checks of the figures and text as well as tidying up a few cosmetic drafting points, especially the layout of the tables and numbering of paragraphs and sections. The detailed figures are still subject to revision, however we do not expect any changes to be significant in terms of the overall picture or trends being reported.

5. I would be grateful if you could:

- Provide any comments on the content and format of the draft sections by 2 pm, Wednesday 12 November.
- Let me know if you feel that this extract should be sent to anyone who is not on the distribution list for this email. Do not forward this email.

Please let me know if you have any queries.

Kind regards,
