Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you, sorry for the slow response. Next Wednesday at 10 would work for me. At Drummond Gate?

Best wishes

Dear [REDACTED]

I just wanted to check you received my email below?

I understand you are likely to be very busy at the moment. Perhaps you could catch up with John over the phone for 10-15 minutes? He has availability on the following dates for a quick phone call:

21st April: 16:30-17:00

25th April: 09:30-10:00 or 15:00-15:15

26th April: 10:00-11:00

Thanks,

Dear [REDACTED]

John would be free for a coffee on the 6th June after 15:00 if you are available? Alternatively, if you'd like a phone call to catch up sooner instead, would the 11th May at 16:00-16:30 work?

Let me know which you would prefer and I'll arrange.

Thanks,

Good afternoon

Please would you give John my sincere apologies and ask him if we can rearrange our coffee this afternoon? Obviously I'd like to get it back in the diary as soon as possible.

We have an important announcement with [REDACTED] coming out later this afternoon and associated media work that means I can't get away from the office today.

I am very sorry, particularly for the unavoidably late notice, and look forward to seeing John as soon as we can rearrange.

Best wishes
